Upcoming Survey of Current Welfare Recipients

Research and Development Division California Department of Social Services

Issue

- We are committed to providing services to help our clients successfully transition from welfare to work.
- We know that many of our clients are experiencing problems such as mental health issues, substance abuse, and domestic violence.
- We'd like to know more about how common these problems are in California's welfare population, and the extent to which these and other problems interfere with our clients' ability to obtain and maintain employment.

ASPE Grant

- In 2001, RADD received a competitive award of $ 250,000 from ASPE (Associate Secretary for Planning & Evaluation) for this study.
- One of only 6 states to receive this grant. Other awards went to: Colorado, Maryland, Missouri, South Carolina, and Washington D.C.

Study Approach (1)

- Telephone Survey of approximately 2000 current California welfare recipients (One parent, two parent, and child only cases).
- Same questions asked in all 6 states.
- Will allow comparisons between states.
- Survey to be conducted in English and Spanish.

Study Approach (2)

- 200 Questions assessing:
  - ◆ Demographics, employment status, education, child care, physical and mental health, domestic violence, transportation, and attitudes about welfare and employment.
- Using administrative data, we will be able to follow the subjects over time to determine the extent to which these factors are associated with employment and moving off welfare.
